Janice Bryant Howroyd and Stacie Habegger Named to SIA's 2026 Global Power 150 Women in Staffing

The ActOne Group is proud to announce that Founder and Chairwoman Janice Bryant Howroyd and Chief Sales Officer Stacie Habegger have been named to Staffing Industry Analysts' (SIA) 2026 Global Power 150 Women in Staffing list, honoring senior leaders whose vision and leadership are shaping their organizations and the staffing industry.

Now in its 12th year, SIA's Global Power 150 Women in Staffing recognizes 100 leaders from the Americas and 50 from around the world. Both ActOne Group honorees were named to the Americas 100.

As Chief Sales Officer, Stacie leads with a clear belief: technology should strengthen human potential, not replace it. That principle guided her role in helping ActOne Group launch its next-generation workflow automation solution, built to keep human expertise at the center where it matters most. Clients have reported significant efficiencies and immediate savings.

Stacie also contributes thought leadership to industry publications and serves as a trusted strategic advisor to organizations navigating a fast-changing talent market.

Known to many as JBH, Janice founded ActOne Group and has grown it into a multibillion-dollar family of brands serving Fortune 500 companies and beyond. She is the author of The Art of Work and Acting Up, and shares her perspective through Ask JBH, her blog and podcast.

A dedicated philanthropist and community advocate, Janice continues to invest in employee development, AI innovation and the next generation of talent, fueling the culture of continuous learning that defines ActOne.

“The 2026 Global Power 150 Women in Staffing demonstrate that innovation and people-centered leadership aren’t competing priorities,” said Ursula Williams, President of Staffing Industry Analysts. “These leaders are putting new technologies into practice while developing talent, strengthening organizations and creating new opportunities for the people they serve. Congratulations to our 2026 honorees for showing what is possible when leadership brings technological innovation and human capability together.”

The 2026 honorees will be profiled in the November/December issue of Staffing Industry Review and recognized at SIA's Executive Forum North America, March 8 to 11, 2027, at the Fontainebleau Miami Beach.
